Thanks for your interest of the human intestinal absorption database. The intestinal absorption data in human for 648 compounds were collected from more than 100 literatures. The large database guarantees the statistical significance of the analysis.

I agree to use the intestinal absorption database for research purpose only. I will not transfer or redistribution this database to other laboratories. I agree that any public reports or publication of results obtained using the intestinal absorption database will acknowledge its use by an appropriate citation (J. Chem. Inf. Model. 2007, 47, 208-218). This license agreement is only used for user record, and no signature is necessary.
